W. V. Allen is now the dominant political question in Nebraska. That the new senator will be a stalwart Republican goes out saying. He will heartily support the McKinley administration, and will come from the Southern part of the state.

The loud talk and puffing up of some Omaha people means nothing. Omaha has one senator, and can not hope to secure everything. This is especially true when it is remembered that if Omaha had voted the Republican ticket in anything like a fair way all Republican state officials would have been elected. A change of 1,500 votes from Populism to the Republican ticket would have accomplished this restricted.

FIRST AVERY LAW VERDICT. Judgment for $15,000 Given to an Em-MARYVILLE, MO., Dec. 6 .- (Special.)

"The arguments against government issues of paper money as a medium for commercial exchanges have been fully made and need not be repeated in detail. Its rigidity, its failure to meet demands where demand is most urgent, the dependency of the whole industrial structure upon the state of the revenue and public expenditure—these are important links in that chain of argument. The menace to our domestic affairs, several times recurring from a threatened change in the standard under which they are carried on, and our foreign trade settled, has been a companion evil—perhaps the greater of the two.

"The proposal to substitute bank issues for government notes is opposed with many honest prejudices, and assailed by bitter denunciations. The first arise from a failure to comprehend the true philosophy of a paper currency, and must be patiently considered. The latter characteristics are supported to the patiently considered.

a failure to comprehend the true philosophy of a paper currency, and must be patiently considered. The latter obscure the question by reckless statements charging that all propositions for currency reform are bank conspiracies to exploit the people. Referring to such proposals, an eminent speaker recently warned his uninstructed hearers:

"These banks will become cormorants to eat up your substance, control your politics and warp the political views in all the communities. Send a man to congress to help defeat this great evil. Such tirades against reason, and such appeals to prejudice and ignorance, the statesman must oppose by simple truth. Is a system of bank credit currency, in its ability to meet the various wants of an industrious commercial people, superior to the issues of government paper money? If that question be answered affirmatively, it may be safely left to time to show that the nature of the hanker differs not at all from the general nature of men in other callings. The motives for his action are the same. It is not for the benefit of the banker, or any particular class, that the plea for currency referm is urged, it is urged on behalf of the whole people, who will be the recipients of the benefits thereof. And it is on this ground only that the claim is entitled to consideration.

Advantages to Poorer Districts. SPRINGFIELD. MO., Dec. 6.—(Special.) The trial of James M. Kirby, a wealthy wholesale liquor dealer, for the murder of Russell Campbell, a member of one of the most prominent families in the county, was commenced in criminal court to-day. The testimony showed that Kirby shot Campbell when the latter and his brother, Dick Campbell, had him on the floor kicking him. The case will go to the jury to-morrow.

Advantages to Poorer Districts.

"I shall not be outside of my duty if I venture to point out, in at least one important respect, the advantages to the portant respect, the advantages to the poorer districts of the country of a property constituted bank currency. It may be done by fairly describing the course of the financial movement as it now goes on, and by presenting in contrast the movement as it would go on under the conditions advocated. It is a familiar fact that, in the period of harvesting and crop moving, the currency is strongly drawn from the centers to the country districts. When this movement is over, the currency again tends toward the centers. The currency flows to the centers to pay loans occatends toward the centers. The currency flows to the centers to pay loans occasioned by its use and other indebtedness, and also to secure the benefit of interest to the country banker for a portion of his funds which in a dull period would otherwise be unemployed in his hands. At present the currency so sent consists almost ent the currency so sent consists entirely of legal tender notes and ury notes-that is to say, in the money which the law recognizes as lawful re-serve. Thus received by the banks in the serve. Thus received by the banks in the money centers, it becomes a reserve for deposits in the relation of one to four. Now, deposits may be increased by loans as well as by the deposit of cash. A loan for ten thousand or a hundred thousand goes to the borrower's credit upon the bank's books, and swells the deposit account by so much.

I.500 votes from Populism to the Republican ticket would have accomplished this result. Omaha ordinarily should give 3,000 Republican majority. This year she gave less than 100. This does not leave that city in a very good position to claim the senatorship as against Lincoln, where a steadfast Republican majority has been maintained from time immemorial, and this year showed a substantial gain. Mr. Hayward, of Nebraska City, late Republican candidate for governor, continues to be a strong candidate. Of the Lincoln aspirants, D. E. Thompson seems to be far in the lead. He is a business man, and has never been before the people for any political favor. The legislative session will open the first week in January and the prospect is excellent for a spirited contest. bank's books, and swells the deposit account by so much.

"True, the borrower may check against this fund, but his check may also be deposited in the same bank, in which case it is a mere transfer to another account; or, if it be deposited in another bank and paid in money by the lending bank, it is still a transfer. The total deposits of all the banks are swelled by this original loan.

"The efforts of the banks at the centers to increase their loans cause interest to fall. The fall in the rate of interest causes interest and dividend paying securities to rise. The rise in securities induces speculative buying. The speculative buyer be-

The desire to obtain legal money in their place would cause the banks receiving them to push them home for redemption in legal money, but the general effort in this direction would neutralize, to a large degree, the effect desired. Bank A sending home the notes of bank B, would be met, not by a payment in legal money, but as an offset by the presentation of the notes of bank A. There would be a mutual retirement of their respective bank note liabilities. Of course, this precision in offsets would not be the rule, but the illustration shows the general effect to be the temporary retirement of a currency when it cannot be circulated in the service of the country's trade and exchange. Observe this:

The power to lend is not thus lost, it is "The power to lend is not thus lost; it is temporarily suspended. When, with the recurring needs of the interior to handle its products of the farm, the factory, and the mine, the power to issue circulating notes may be summoned into use, then the needs may be summoned into use, then the needs of industry will coincide with the profit-moving motives of the bunker, and the full value of this latent power will be experienced, not in the centers, where bank notes are not needed and will not circulate, but in the interior, where raw products are raised, and where the busy wheels of shop and factory certify that labor wages are to be paid. are not needed and will not circulate, but in the interior, where raw products are raised, and where the busy wheels of shop and factory certify that labor wages are to be paid.
